4th AGE Annual Conference

Friday, 18 November 2016
9.00 - 15.30, Brussels

Addressing age discrimination, while strengthening economic and social rights of older people, in order to empower them as equal citizens

Although the European Charter of Fundamental Rights declares the rights of older people to live a life of dignity and independence, further pressure on public budgets to restore financial equilibrium and enhance economic growth are increasing the risk of human rights violations against older persons. Older people remain the only group that is specifically protected by the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights (Article 25) but has not yet been the object of a specific EU policy action. Consequently, various violations of older people's fundamental rights remain largely unknown and unaddressed.

Similarly to previous years, AGE Annual Conference 2016 will be the opportunity to discuss among our member-organisations, policymakers and external guests how the EU should address age discrimination, while strengthening both economic and social rights of older people in order to empower them as equal citizens.

We would also like to take opportunity to discuss the remaining challenges in relation to the on-going review of the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing (MIPAA). With academics, industry and EU representatives, we will explore how the EU and Member States have so far contributed to the MIPAA objectives and identify priorities for this further implementation in the future. Finally, we will discuss possible links between this UN instrument and EU instruments and initiatives that have an impact on the lives of older people.

Finally, AGE member organisations will present some practical examples of creating the implementation of age-friendly environments at the grassroots level.

AGE work is co-funded by the Rights, Equality and Citizenship Programme of the European Union. The contents of this document are the sole responsibility of AGE Platform Europe and can in no way be taken to reflect the views of the European Commission.
